About Me

Hi! I'm Luke Qumsieh, co-founder and owner of GoldStar Learning. My passion for education started early—as the eldest of five siblings, I've been naturally teaching and mentoring since childhood. What drives me is that breakthrough moment when everything clicks for a student. There's nothing more rewarding than seeing the confidence and joy on their face after they've aced that important test.

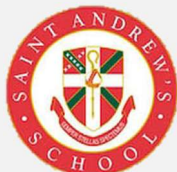

Academic Approach

My approach is built on understanding that every student learns differently. Whether your child needs weekly homework support or intensive exam preparation, I meet them exactly where they are. Having recently experienced these same academic pressures myself, I can relate to their struggles and provide the encouragement and strategies that work. I adapt my tutoring style to match each student's learning preferences, ensuring they build lasting confidence.

Beyond tutoring, I enjoy training in Muay Thai, doing mechanic work, programming, and travel. These varied experiences have shown me how my problem solving can be applied to every new tutoring session. Here are some of my favorite moments outside the classroom:
